Maine Senator Defends Pack. ers and Their Dealings in Past Years.

Defends Packers.

Defending the packers, Schater Fernald said their business had to be conducted in large units in order to be economical. Their development of refrigerator cars and ownership of stock-yards, like their utilization of animal

"One of the most notable results of co-product utilization is the fact that ill meat from a steer can be sold by he packer for much less than he pays or the live animal." Senator Fernald aid. "Swift & Co., in 1918 paid on an average of $92.70 a head for cattle, and sold the meat for $81.85 a head. For sy-products $22.85 a head was received. Thus $10.81 covered the expense and srofit on each head. And figures show he profit per head was only $1.92.

"To my way of thinking, the discovery made by the packers that by-products that were thrown away could be utilized is one of the great achievements of medern times. When the proposition to curb the packing industry is viewed in its proper light I think it will be found that the present orsanization of the industry really meets the needs of the situation in this contiry and results in efficiency.

"The commission," ascerted the sen-

"The commission," asserted the sentator, "falled to get any evidence of combination. It is only by unfair methods, by misinterpretation and missiatement of facts that it was able to come to the conclusion that there is combination in restraint of trade. The report, so far as I have been some to investigate it, contains no evidence of monopoly. I am reliably informed that the commission in some instances actually used only such parts of telegrams taken from the files of the packers as appeared to hear out this case, omitting items from the same telegrams which were not useful evidence to the committee.

hardware and other goods out of their line.

"It is unthinkable that congress should give the government power to say," he asserted on this point, "what products a concern may or may not handle, as it would be able to do under priosed legislation, instead of attempting to make big business little. Let us all null together to make little business big. Bemove the shackles some men are attempting to place on business interests of the country. # DEPOSIT MEMOS EASILY FORGED

Messenger Boy Accused Having Kept 80 Per Cent of Deposits.

According to Detectives Bishop and Joyce, they have in Dan Hellman, 28 years old, South Main street, a unique forger, who is being detained at the Central police office on a charge of larceny. The detectives say that Hellman, employed as a public messenger, would take money for women living on Rayburn boulevard and Gayoso avenue to be deposited in banks and then held out around 80 per cent.

He is accused of getting $220 from Ida Simmons, of Rayburn boulevard, and depositing only a trivial amount. This Bishop and Joyce recovered for the owner. From Lea Raymond, Gayoso avenue, he procured $80 and is alleged to have deposited but $220.

However, Hellman, they allege changed figures in the bank book so that his victims thought their money was safely in the cashier vaults. Hellman never failed to accept the toil for having served as their messenger and was profuse in this thanks for additional tips.

ST. LOUIS TO TAX

RENT PROFITEERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 21—Property owners who are taking advantage of the dearth in buildings in St. Louis by extorting exorbitant rentals will be compelled to pay greatly increased taxes, Assessor Wollbrinck announced. The largessor, in a statement, referred to the landlords as 'rent profiteers,' and said his deputies had learned that some landlords had raised rental 50 and 60 ngr cent recently. The deputies are canvassing homes to ascertain which property holders have raised rents.

When rentals considered extertionate when rentals considered exteriorizate are discovered, assessments against the property owner will be made on a 100 per cent valuation and no exemptions will be granted, the assessor said. At present assessments usually are made on a 75 per cent valuation, the assessor explained.

The system will be altered so that one inclivitual will control all relations with one given country, whereas new political, continerellal and new relations were handled separately.

There are about 500 diplomatic posts to be filled besides countless legation and consular positions.

The rank which diplomats abroad will take is still uncertain and it is considered probable that many countries will appoint charge d'affaires, an example which Germany must follow.
